1 ABSTRACT

2   An information management and synchronous communications system and

3 method facilitates database equilibrium and synchronization with wired, wireless and Web-based

4 systems, user-friendly and efficient generation of computerized menus and reservations for

5 restaurants and other applications that utilize equipment with nonstandard graphical formats,

6 display sizes and/or applications for use in remote data entry, information management and

7 communication with host computer, digital input device or remote pager via standard hardwired

8 connection, the internet, a wireless link or the like.

9

658960 v1